Phantom of Darkgrove

By D. Chapelle

The Darkgrove family has been summoned to the family estate to pay their respects to wealthy matriarch Ernestine Elwonga. She doesn't trust any of the family members and makes the mistake of telling them so. Dottie and Dexter Darkgrove will do anything to ensure that the lion's share of the estate goes to them while son Aykroyd Darkgrove has his troubles with the law. Ernestine's allies include her beautiful ward Tillie Webshuttle and....the mysterious Phantom of Darkgrove.

Gary Botter and the Divining Sphere

By Julie Eschliman

As the end of another year approaches at Wahoo Wizarding Academy, young Gary Botter really doesn't want to think about being a hero and saving the school (again!) or even about finding the mysterious "Divining Sphere" rumored to be hiding somewhere on school grounds. Gary just wants to pass his finals, avoid trouble, and finally work up the courage to ask his secret crush--the talented, intelligent, and lovely Lily Lightheart--to the Midsummer Ball. Alas, Gary's nemesis, Rufus Nastius, has his own dastardly plans for Gary, Lily, the dance, and the "Divining Sphere". Will Gary, with help from Lily's fiercely loyal friend, Pixie, be able to protect her from the conniving Rufus? Will anyone be able to find the "Divining Sphere"? And what exactly is up with the eccentric librarian, Professor Trope?

B Mine Forever

By John Burkhart

Lovely Melody Moonstruck, her good friend Priscilla Poorhouse and handsome hero Digger Malone all own gold mines. At least they are supposed to be gold mines but so far all they have come up with is a small amount of silver. And they need to strike it rich so Melody can marry Digger. Then why is the evil villain known as Blackie trying to obtain the mines by hook or crook (Mostly crook)? And can Blackie really trust his accomplice, wicked La Verne Laredo?
